Berenberg Absolute Return European Equities I A

Actively managed market-neutral strategy

Investment Strategy

The investment objective of Berenberg Absolute Return European Equities is to achieve long-term capital growth that outperforms the benchmark €STR TR over a medium to long-term time horizon. The main driver is the underlying above-average and sustainable earnings growth of the selected companies on a long basis, in addition the portfolio management shorts structurally vulnerable and deteriorating companies. The selected companies are headquartered in Europe, but often operate globally. The decisive criteria for the business models of the long positions are high entry barriers, end markets with structural growth and excellent management teams. The short positions are selected on the basis of structural decline, competitive environment and valuation.

- Growth-oriented long/short strategy
- Concentrated portfolio of approx. 40-50 long positions and 30-40 short positions
- All cap approach, i.e. exploiting investment opportunities across all market segments
- Active approach, i.e. index weights have no influence on individual stock selection

Fund management comment

Following a technical rally, the stock market recovery was slowed by economic concerns and tariff uncertainty in the US. The Berenberg Absolute Return European Equities was unable to beat its benchmark last month. Long: The continued lack of acceleration in US prescription data weighed on Novo Nordisk's shares. Concerns about a slump in US consumer spending due to the expected US tariffs weighed on Richemont in March. Short: A German perfumery chain has again reduced its targets for the current financial year, jeopardising its medium-term goals. We remain short. Weakness in the automotive sector continues and thus the outlook of the German automotive supplier for the current financial year was disappointing, which had a positive effect on our short position. Transactions: We bought a long position in Redcare Pharmacy and went short in a software company in Switzerland. We also closed out a short position in a staffing services company and Moncler to reduce our exposure to luxury goods.

They illustrate past performance. Future performance can deviate both positively and negatively from these calculations. Gross performance (BVI method) takes into account all charges at fund level (e.g. management fee), net performance plus the issue surcharge. As no issue surcharge is incurred for this share class the gross performance corresponds to the net performance. Additional charges can arise for individual investors (e.g. custody account fees, commissions and other fees). Also, fees may be charged for the administration of the safe custody account, which will lower the performance. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.
